1. According to the ration strength specified on the kitchen bulletin in the Infanterie Kaserne, Rathenow (N 53/Z 15), the installation quartered 400 troops prior to 10 July 1951. In addition, the kitchen catered to about 200 recruits, only some of whom were quartered in the installation. The recruits were said to receive special training, in which troops from all three barracks installations in Rathenow participated. On 11 July, 100 recruits carrying baggage were seen arriving from the railroad station.

4. Infantry troops and 15 T-34 tanks practiced at Koenigsheide south of Rathenow from 1 to 8 July. A forestry official stated that the training site was situated between the localities of Pritzerbe (N 53/Z 24), Seelendorf, Graeningen and Banne (N 53/Z 15). A Ramberman, who spoke Russian and Polish, was told by Soviet soldiers that the unit, which was in training, had come from Dallgow-Doberitz. **

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~ Comment. Since this area was also used as a training site in the summer of 1950 it is possible that troops are practicing there again this year. The units concerned may have been those whose departure from Schoenhausen to the Fourth Gds Mecz Army area was observed between 5 and 11 July 1951. However, since none of the troop trains leaving Schoenhausen was definitely reported to have been bound for Doeberitz, the statement in the present report that elements of the 1st Mecz Div were in the training area cannot be evaluated.
